Gentlemen:

We are writing this letter to express our interest in providing legal representation for the Republic of Estonia after your pending elections are concluded. Based on our discussions with Mr. Kalle Tenno, we believe that our assistance could benefit Estonia in at least four principal areas: (1) assisting Estonia in developing its relationship with the U.S. government; (2) assisting Estonia in structuring international business transactions; (3) assisting Estonia in its relations with governments other than the U.S.; and (4) assisting Estonia in any litigation (including World Court proceedings) that may result from any of the above. Of course, we would be prepared to assist you in other areas as issues arise.

We have enclosed for your review a summary of the backgrounds of the attorneys at our firm, as well as a description of some of the matters handled by the firm. As you will note, the firm has handled an extremely wide variety of matters over its history, including the representation of clients before U.S. government officials and agencies and the Congress; negotiating and structuring national and international business transactions; and domestic and international litigation. Our attorneys have extensive experience in dealing with the United States government at all levels and many have served in our government. For example, Harry Huge served (along with President Bush's current National Security Advisor, Lt. General Brent Scowcroft) on President Carter's Advisory Committee on Arms Control and Disarmament. Incidentally, Mr. Huge was in Estonia for a few days in October of 1989. Mitchell Rogovin has represented U.S. government agencies in a variety of matters, including serving as special counsel to then-director of the CIA, George Bush, and is the former chief counsel of the Internal Revenue Service. David Geronemus served as a law clerk on the United States Supreme Court.

Our work has by no means been confined to governmental relations. We serve as advisors to business entities and pension funds, and certain of our more experienced lawyers sit on the boards of directors of business corporations. We have extensive experience in all phases of litigation, including international proceedings. Finally, it may be of interest to you that we have extensive experience in the area of labor union relations with employers and with the government. For example, Mr. Huge represented the United Mine Workers of America in connection with negotiating an agreement that resolved the longest coal strike in U.S. history, and served for five years as the Chairman of the Mine Workers National Pension and Health Fund. That fund provided pension and health benefits to some 1,000,000 coal miners and their families throughout the United States. Mr. Huge also has represented other unions, including the Sheet Metal Workers International Association, the Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers Union, and the United Food and Commercial Workers Union, the largest union in the AFL-CIO.

In addition, we are in the process of combining our firm with the New York-based law firm of Donovan Leisure Newton & Irvine. The combined firm will have offices in New York, Washington, D.C., Los Angeles, and Paris, and will have some 155 attorneys. We have enclosed materials on the Donovan firm as well. You will note that the Donovan firm has substantial experience in international trade and international transactions. The individual attorneys who will be practicing with us as part of this combination will include Roderick Hills, former Counsel to the President of the United States (1972-1974) and Chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission; William Eberle, former United States Trade Representative and Director of the Cabinet Council for International Economic Policy; and William Colby, former Director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

As you can tell from the above discussion, the attorneys at our firm have substantial experience in many areas of the law. However, to the extent that attorneys from outside the firm are required to successfully conclude a particular matter, we would be prepared to assist you in assembling a team of legal experts. If you are interested in proceeding, we would be willing to explore with you the possibility of deferring our fees for these services until some time in the future.

We hope that this introduction to our firm is helpful to you, and look forward to discussing these matters with you. We would feel privileged to have the opportunity of working with you. We trust, of course, that the contents of this letter will remain confidential.

Sincerely,

Harry Huge

Dear Chairman Rüütel:

I am very pleased to learn that you have expressed an interest in retaining the undersigned and this law firm to assist the Republic of Estonia in a variety of legal matters. Such matters would initially focus on assisting Estonia in its relations with the U.S. government (both Congress and the executive branch), but could also include assisting Estonia in its relations with the governments of other nations in establishing international commercial relationships with various business entities, as well as other matters that may arise from time to time. As you may recall, I described our firm to you in a letter dated March 16, 1990 (copy attached).

If you are interested in proceeding, we will be happy to discuss with you a mutually acceptable arrangement regarding our fees and expenses. We are, of course, aware of the hard currency situation faced by Estonia at this time, and would be willing to explore the possibility of deferring our fees until some future date.

If you wish to retain us to assist you, kindly countersign this letter as indicated below.

I remember fondly our discussion and the time spent together in your office in Tallinn in July. It would be a pleasure
